

A large, white, net-like sculpture resembling a water world, displayed in a gallery with a glass ceiling. The sculpture is made of a fine mesh of white threads, forming a complex, organic shape that looks like a water world or a large, intricate net. It is suspended in the air, and the background shows the structural elements of a glass and steel dome or vaulted ceiling.

WASSERWELTEN

„Die Natur ist unsere Inspiration,
unsere geistige Eingebung.
Wir sehen uns Wasserwelten am Dia an und entwickeln daraus unsere
eigenständigen Kreaturen.“
